

Call Home – EMERALD

Once upon a time, in another world. So far from mine.
I had lost my way. And even more, I didn't care to stay.
I look down, at my feet, because I see, you're just like me.
Each and every day, I see it more, and more that way.

I know it's hard to see, you don't want to believe.
I know you're there all alone. I think you better call home.
I know it's hard to stay, even harder to leave.
I know you're there all alone, I think you better call home.

There's no one to blame, if you done it.
I'm not ashamed, cause I love ya.
It's just not the same, can you feel it.
You gotta come home, cause you're needed.

Life's not the same, since you left here.
And I'm feeling a pain, that I can't bear.
It's just not the same, can you feel it.
You gotta come home, cause I mean it.

You're not the blame, cause you feel it.
It's never the same, cause you wish it.
Start over again, we can do it.
You gotta call home, You can do it.
