

Collide – EMERALD

Have you tried, at least just once, to change, what's already done.
Don't cry, on a setting sun, don't mind, what's already gone.

In the sky, when the moon is bright, we all see, the same moonlight.
If you try, you're not the only one. Who'll cry, a thousand times a day.

When the moon, and the rising sun, collide.
Like a stone, lost out there, somewhere in time.

If I could fly, to the rising sun, today.
I'd try, on the very first light some way.

I'll fly, with this world far behind me, today.
I won't cry, out there somewhere in time to stay.