

One Of These Days – EMERALD

Just keep on pushing, like you have before. Over and over, I'm still here for more.
Just keep on pushing, have it your own way. Over and over, another one of those days.

One of these days, one of these days. Some things don't change, one of these days.

If I only sit here, outside your world of play. Think I'd go un-noticed. Just fade myself away.
But you don't forget me, I see you come my way. Over and over, another one of those days.

One of these days, one of these days. Some things don't change, one of these days.

I might be simple minded. Or stupid, like you say.
But I've been watching closely, and now I know your ways.
To you, I might be little. And not much am I worth.
But now I know your weakness. And I'll strike you where it hurts.

One of these days, one of these days. Some things don't change, one of these days.

I see you coming now, I hope you turn away.
Things are different now. Please turn for your own sake.
But you keep on coming, I feel it's not your day.
Just one word from you, will release my hidden rage.

One of these days, one of these days. Some things don't change, one of these days.

One of these.....And you, And you, And you, And you.....And You.....

Little did you know what was building up inside.
Sorry for your loss. What you got, was only right.
Soon as this one's over, another one took it's place.
Looking now, right at it. All I see is my own face.

One of these days, one of these days. Some things don't change, one of these days.

So, on and on it goes. Never to see an end.
What have I done to you ? When did this all begin ?
What do you want from me ? Please tell me what to say !!
Over and over, Another one of those days.

One of these days, one of these days. Some things don't change, one of these days.

One of these days.....